What's the difference between Social Membership and Boating Membership?

Boating members are members who are boat owners (power / sail), or members who actively participate in on-water activities at the Bras d'Or Yacht Club, and other yacht clubs (ie: sailing regattas, sailing lessons, etc.). Boating members have the additional benefit of membership with the Canadian Yachting Association (CYA) and its provincial governing body, the Nova Scotia Yachting Association (NSYA). Participation at certain sailing events in Nova Scotia requires CYA membership for all crew.

Any member can apply for a CYA membership, by checking off the BOATING Membership box, and adding the additional $24.00 to their membership fee.

What's an Intermediate Membership?

Intermediate Membership is an entry level membership, NEW this year to BYC, for young people between the ages of 19 and 25. This special category was created so young people who are no longer covered by their parents membership can continue to be members, or become first time members, of BYC at a reduced rate, understanding that young folks in this age bracket may still be going to school, have only part time income, and cannot afford full membership fees.

No Administration Fee is required for Intermediate Members. Intermediate Members can apply for Social, or Boating membership. The $24.00 CYA fee applies to all Boating Members.
